Dear Sarah,

I've been following Meridian's shift toward AI-assisted project workflows since your announcement last spring, and the Senior Project Manager role feels like a natural next step for the kind of work I've been doing and want to keep doing.

In my current role at DataStride, I led the rollout of a new project delivery framework across four engineering teams, reducing average sprint delays by 22% and cutting stakeholder reporting time in half. The challenge wasn't the framework itself; it was getting 40 people who worked differently to adopt it without losing momentum on active projects. That's the kind of problem I've spent the last three years getting good at.

What draws me to Meridian specifically is the emphasis on cross-functional ownership. Most of the projects I'm proudest of involved breaking down handoff bottlenecks between product, engineering, and client teams, which, from what I understand, is central to how your delivery model works.

I'd welcome the chance to talk through how my background fits what you're building. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Alex Morgan
